

Paranoia
3:45 p.m.

Few signs of life observed.
Paranoia finds a wicked path
into my consciousness, breath taking.
Surely the gator will start.
Thoughts of an early departure
begin to capture my attention.
Heaters running back at camp.
Covey of quail breaks shadow.